The Donner Party (sometimes called the Donner-Reed Party) was a group of American pioneers who migrated to California in a wagon train from the Midwest. Delayed by a series of mishaps, they spent the winter of 1846-1847 snowbound in the Sierra Nevada mountain range. Some of the migrants resorted to cannibalism to survive, eating the bodies of those who had succumbed to starvation and sickness.

Trail Pets Domesticating animals along the way Those who traveled the road west to Oregon, Utah and California during the 19th century were as prone to love pets as are contemporary Americans. Then, as now, this attachment led some to attempt to tame/domesticate "wild" animals captured in their natural state.
